Not illustrated. 1900 Excerpt: .an argument against English in our schools any more than against reading. But it is stating a fact. When I entered upon my duties I found the schools weak on the side of thought work, though very good in formal work. I am not saying why this was the case or that it was not necessarily so. But again I am simply stating a fact. While our standard of literacy has long been high, and a proper occasion for pride on our part, our standard of real education was and is low. The first year of my work was devoted to general preparations for a forward step on the part of the whole teaching force. The assistance rendered in this matter by Dr. Dressier and others in the Summer School of 1896 is incalculable. In the middle of the next year a new course of study for the elementary schools was prepared. At that time this course of study represented little more than aspirations along the line of thought work in the schools. But the Summer School of 1897 gave me an opportunity to address the teachers and confer with them on this course of study thirty times. Thus it was possible for me to make my aspirationst tolerably well known and understood. Dr. Brown rendered the cause of education in Hawaii a service at this time, especially by fostering local leadership in educational thought and work. The following September this course of study went into...
