NOTES, CORRESPONDENCE AND REMARKS. NOTE NO. I. General Lee not Surprised. AS to the claim that Hooker surprised General Lee by his flank movement, by moving up the river, there is some doubt about it. Pleasanton states in Scribners Magazine (Vol. III. , p. 173), that he captured at Germania Ford an engineer officer of General Stuarts staff, with a big diary, in which it was stated that the first week in March a council of war had been held at General Stuarts headquarters, that Jackson, Hill, Ewell and Stuart were present, that the conference lasted five hours, and that it was there decided that in their opinion the next battle would take place at or near Chancellorsville. General Colston also has stated in his article in Scribners Magazine that General Lee was not surprised by Hookers movement, but expected the attack to come...
